FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Source One Management Services to Demystify Nearshore Sourcing at ISM2015 Annual Conference

Willow Grove, PA (April 22, 2015) – At the ISM2015 Annual Conference this May, Source One Management Services joins an impressive roster of influential industry leaders in celebrating 100 years for the Institute of Supply Management. Already a thought leader and pioneer in strategic sourcing from nearshore countries, Source One Management Services will examine the challenges of, and share best practices for, sourcing from Mexico and other Latin American countries.

William Dorn, Vice President of Operations, and Diego De La Garza, Senior Project Manager & Latin America Liaison, are Source One’s authorities on low cost country sourcing and advocates for U.S.-Mexico partnerships. In their discussion, Sourcing from Mexico: The Supplier Development Challenge, Dorn and De la Garza will outline the unique business partnership opportunities in Mexico and how United States businesses can capitalize on these opportunities through proven strategies. Dorn and De la Garza will also host an exhibition booth (#542) at the event to discuss all things sourcing and supply management, from training to staff augmentation to full-on procurement transformation.

Source One also continues to be the premier telecommunications management provider for Corporate United, the market leader in managed supplier and contract solutions. As part of its supplier partnership, Source One will attend a dinner for Corporate United members during the ISM annual conference.

“Source One continues to be a leading proponent for sourcing from Mexico. We have successfully matched countless domestic organizations with best-in-class Latin American suppliers to form lasting partnerships and we’re eager to help even more procurement departments realize the value we’ve seen from nearshoring. Our expertise has garnered the interest of both executives at home and abroad, and we’re excited to continue our leadership position in helping companies achieve their goals through outside-the-box nearshoring solutions,” claims Steven Belli, CEO of Source One.

According to the ISM Conference Overview, “This is an opportunity to be inspired, exchange industry best practices and expand your global supply chain network at ISM2015 Annual Conference. Celebrating a huge milestone, ISM’s 100 year anniversary, this conference promises to deliver nothing less than the biggest and the best.” Source One looks forward to sharing its nearshoring innovations at this event with the best minds in the industry, and leading the charge to transform the industry’s outsourcing approach.
