

PRAISE FOR THE KENSINGTON HOTEL FROM CHICAGO BUSINESS TRAVELER

September, 2016. Ann Arbor, MI -- Sean Haverty, an Ann Arbor native, recently traveled to town from Chicago on business. He planned to stay at his typical local hotel, Weber's Inn. Due to a local convention, the rates were much higher than Haverty was willing to pay. He began to look elsewhere and went to the Holiday Inn off State Street next to Briarwood Mall. When he arrived, Haverty was welcomed by the receptionist who was able to arrange a room for him at their sister hotel next door, The Kensington.

As soon as Haverty walked in the door of The Kensington, he "was impressed with the chic lobby décor and the welcoming atmosphere of the reception staff," especially when they offered him "water or champagne" when he checked in.

The next day, Haverty, who considers himself a 'foodie', ate at the hotel restaurant. "I ordered summer chowder soup was blown away with the quality and flavor," he said.

"I travel over 100 days per year for work," Haverty said, "and I've stayed in countless hotels throughout my career. My stay at The Kensington was truly exceptional and I plan to stay there again when I travel to Ann Arbor in the future."

ABOUT THE KENSINGTON HOTEL

The Kensington Hotel in Ann Arbor, formerly named Kensington Court hotel, was originally a Stadler-Hilton "Inn" style Hotel featuring comfortable lodging, meeting rooms and an attached restaurant. For 50 years, it has been an Ann Arbor landmark providing excellent accommodations for reasonable rates.

###

CONTACT THE KENSINGTON HOTEL:

Emily Cruz
Director of Sales & Marketing
734.761.7800
ecruz@kcourtaa.com

