BIO

GIO is a self-taught yet talented 22-year-old musician from Kansas City who has developed the skills to play instruments such as the drums, piano, and guitar all on his own. He's been making music since 2015 and takes inspiration from everything in life to give life to his all of his songs and projects

GIO moved to Los Angeles, California in 2020 where he met the CEO of APEX and the former manager of hit star Jake Paul, Adam Quinn. Adam has mentioned while mentoring GIO the name Nicholas Cooper, arenowned vocal coach and teacher. Soon the two were introduced and under Nick's guidance, GIO grew as a performer and artist. Now under the management of international music mogul Qadree El-Amin of SouthPaw Entertainment has worked with such artists as Boyz II Men, Janet Jackson, Teddy Riley, Blackstreet, and Michael Jackson as well as many others. GIO will be shot into not just stardom but superstardom Even with the pandemic GIO remains determined to achieve his dreams and has stayed in contact with everyone who has and will support him. Over the past few years, he has been working as hard as ever and even released a new single 'Still Here' which reached the top 10 on the European music charts & World Indie Music. The song is being played on over 100 stations in the European market and now entering the American markets where it'll surely rocket into success. The video is currently available on sites such as YouTube, Spotify, Apple Music, and Soundcloud.
